Alex. H. Washbuff Spring: Gives Some a Lift, Just Leaves Others Bouncing

Spring is that time of year when all living things develop an extra bounce—but it is also a season for

I am writing this across the street from The Star building, whose front is dissolving under the skilled hands of the contractor's crews. We've been hustling stuff out of the old office for a week, and now it's empty and desolate—and yesterday Hope Transfer started clearing the shop of everything the printers don't have to have to get out the

And already we're beginning to hear loud noises and smell brickdust sifting down from above as a familiar scene goes to pot. We haven't seen anything yet-there will be a real crisis when the steel gets here in a couple of weeks and they take off the whole top of the building.
And I have another crisis down at the house, Planted some young hedges in the back yard a year ago and my young dog went around jerking them up. I put 'em back as fast as he jerked 'em up. Some of those hedges got planted 10 timesthe same sprouts-and lived, But a dog is more watchful than any man, and so eventually he got a-head of me. I figure I lost 20% of the hedge crop.

So yesterday I was in touch with Roy Stephenson and we got busy reinforcing the hedge situation, meanwhile locking up the dog-now a year older and of course that much smarter and more devious. The dog is unhappy.

And so am 1 . . Last Sunday had the smell of good fishing weath er, warm, overcast, with a light touch of rain. I thought about it all, at the time. And then Jack Beaty came around yesterday and dropped the news:

He went up to the Narrows Sun-day and the fish practically assaulted him. Boated his limit of big ones. Said the lake was covered up with 🐞 boats. I don't know whether Spring gives you that extra bounce or just leaves you with a beat-up feeling. But I know one thing: I'm going to let the legislature alone long enough to go look at blue water and distant hills—if only for a day.

Mill Postponement to Rival Contracts

oldings in Oklahoma and Arkansas attributed by Dierks Forests, nc.. to the fact that too many newsapers are fied up on long-term tracts with other mills. Viceesident Fred M. Dierks spoke particularly of the larger news papers, but it is probably equally rue of the smaller ones. I know that The Star bought newsint in car lots on the open marthrough most of the 1930'sut there came a day when I was anning the air with a certified riend, not my Texarkana partner, nanaged to help me out with an extra car his mill didn't know bout-and right then and there I hanged my buying policy. We've been on 5-year contracts with Southland at Lufkin, Texas, ver since that mill started in 1940. Lufkin added a second paper-making machine late in the 1940's, and now is preparing to go into proluction with a third machine —and The Star last year expanded its ntract commitment on the basis this expanded production. The Dierks mill plans have been lelayed until a series of expansion: y existing mills have temporarily oaded" the publishers. Look at first pine newsprint mill in the hisits copacity, and now is tripling it. The No. 2 Southern pine mill went at Coosa Pines, Ala., in the late and now is doubling its capacity. Last year the British Bowaters interests opened up a hird Southern mill at Cleveland renn., east of Chattanooga, at a cost of 60 million dollars. And to cap this the largest of all paper manujacturers, International, which makes newsprint in Canada and kraft and book paper in the South. announced this spring that it would rumor placing this mill at possibly Camden, Ark., er Mobile, Ala. Regardless of our controversy with Dierks over Millwood Dam we are for the company in its ambition to put a newsprint mill in this section. It means industry and wealth for this corner of the world. And there can't be too many newsprint mills in the South, in the long run — for we would have to built
